The Stripy Paint Company was established in 2014 by Paul Gaffney with the aim of making it easier to find and reuse materials which are appropriate for historic buildings.

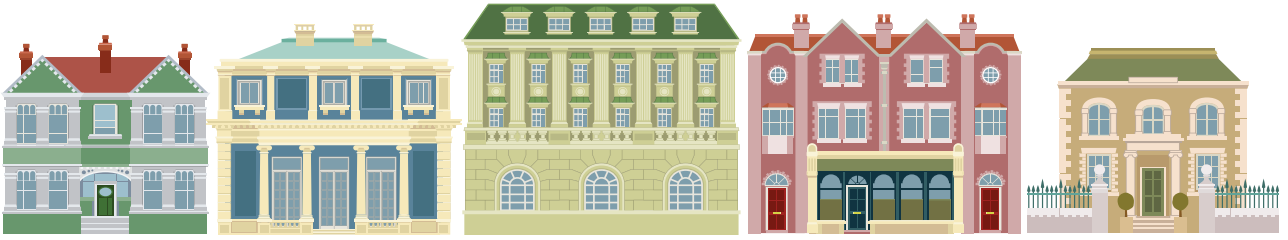

Paul is an engineer and having completed the Post Graduate Diploma in Applied Building Repair and Conservation in Trinity College in 2012 decided to take his passion for historic buildings and establish The Stripy Paint Company with the simple mission statement - "Find anything deliver it anywhere". Since then this has been broadened to "Find anything deliver it anywhere and if it can't be found make it!"

The Company Name - The Stripy Paint Company, what's that about?

In many workplaces a new employee would be sent off to look for things that couldn't be found as a practical joke. The new employee would often then be sent from place to place in search of the item until someone took pity on them and explained that the item didn't exist. The person sent looking for the "long stand" would be told to wait over there where they would be left standing for a long time etc etc. In the building industry common items to be sent to look for are – sky hooks, glass hammers, buckets of steam, skirting board ladders, Stripy Paint etc. At The Stripy Paint Company we do a lot of searching!

You need it, we find it and bring it to you!
